PLANS TO HELP THE WORTHY POOR.

LIST OF PLACES WHERE THEY CAN OBTAIN

FOOD, FUEL AND CLOTHING. The number of worthy poor pecple out of work this winter is large. Efforts to provide for them by establishing relief stations in different parts of the city by the different charity societies are being made, and the places which are already established where immediate relief can be had are increasing their facilities. They all appeal to the charitably inclined public to give additional gifts this year in order to meet the worthy and needy cases of distress and poverty. It has been suggested that all persons who desire to give relief to the poor, buy lodging and meal tickets for the other forms of relief which the societies afford. Following is a list of some of the places where relief will be given to the worthy poor and where tickets can be obtained;

IMMEDIATE RELIEF WILL BE GRANTED.

The Charity Organization Society has prepared a list of some of the places to which homeless and penniless persons may be sent for immediate relief. Some of them are the following:

Bible and Fruit Mission, No. 416 East Twenty-sixth-st.; Bowery Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, No. 13 Bowery; Catherine Mission, No. 22 Catherine Siln; Galilee Mission, No. 63 Park-st.; Madison Square Mission, No. 430 Thirdaye; St. Bartholomew's Mission, No. 316 Water-st.; Temporary Shelter Home, No. 11 Varick Place, and Industrial Christian Alliance, No. 170 Bieecker-st.

tained at the headquarters of each. Persons who desire to give relief to the destitute can procure lodging and meal tickets and give them to applicants for relief rather than money. The Wayfarer's Lodge of the Charity Organization Soclety, at No. 516 West Twenty-eighth-st., will supply tickets which may be given in place of money to homeless men who seek aid. Each ticket will entitle the bearer to a lodging and two meals in return for a reasonable amount of labor. These tickets will be sold to societies, the churches and private individuals in books of ten, the price of the book being $1.

It should be observed by people desiring relief that the societies mentioned afford relief only to the worthy poor and destitute, and that ordinary beggars receive none of the benefits of the charity.

of the population, the accounts of it have been exaggerated, and that the existing charitable societies and other relief associations will be able to meet the emergency if the public gives it its support. In the winter months there are many worthy families—who have not yet made applications for help by reason of the fact that they have laid some means aside for a rainy day—that will doubtless require assistance before the winter is over. These cases are what the charities societies desire to get special help for. Applicants for relief can receive aid at the United Charities Building, No. 105 East Twenty-second-st., until 12 o'clock at night, and the Superintendent of Outdoor Poor will provide in the public institutions for all classes of the homeless. > The members of the association expressed much encouragement over the success of their efforts thus far. From the date of their first meeting this enson nothing has been left unsuid or undone calculated to emphasize among all those sources whence contributions are usually drawn the necessity of wider interest and more persistent work, in view of the inevitably increased demand for the care of the sick poor growing out of the prevailing hard times. Last year upward of $63,000 was received. By reason of the methodical pursuit of collections it is believed that a larger sum will be realized this year. The mite boxes have already been distributed in hotels, places of business and in public places. These afford opportunities for all who have only small sums to contribute. The prospects for considerable church collections are also good, with a sum of the collections are also good; while it is urged upon the wealthy that the duty resting upon them is paramount to be liberal in an extraordinary degree in support of such a worthy cause, at a time when such widespread dis-

The Presbyterian Church has ever been the friend and counsellor of the poor. The coming winter threatens to be an extremely trying one for thousands of families within the bounds of this Presbytery. Already suffering with scarcely a precedent is reported by those familiar with the facts. The meeting then adjourned.

A HURRICANE HITS THE OLYMPIA.

HEAVY GALES AND HIGH SEAS RAGING ON THE NORTH ATLANTIC.

The British stramer Olympia, which left Hamburg on November 22 and Swansea on November 25, reached here yesterday after a severe encounter with a hurricane which almost sent her to the bottom. The vessel looked as if she had been wrestling with an Arctic cyclone, and had come off second best. She was covered with ice, some of her spars were missing, her rudder was patched, and her small boats, which had been torn from the davits, small boats, which had been torn from the davits, were lying on the deck. The cabin was a total wreck. The Olympia had good weather until she reached latitude 40:10, longitude 50:05 on December 10, when one of the most terrific storms that Captain Coleman says he ever met struck her. The Coleman says he ever met struck her. The wind was from the west-northwest, and great seas broke over the steamer.

The hurricane raged for six days, and the winds changed from west-northwest to west, and then to changed from west-northwest to west, and then to southwest, but, however, without abating one jot the fury of the waves. Part of the time the Olympia was rolling in the trough of the sea, and during the hurricane a huge wave struck her astern, and, smashing in her cabin door, destroyed all the stores and clothing. The rudder chains broke twice, and the lashings of the small boats were snapped as if they were bits of twine. The cold was intense and ice formed on the steamer's decks, spars and rigging.

and lee former of the control of the control of the hurricane buffeted the Olympia until she was the hurricane pleasanter, although the sea ran high and the weather was cold rad gloomy. It is a cold that the cold of the sea of the wind shift so rapidly and still retain such a tremendous power. The cargo, it was said, was little injured.

The Dutch steamer Dubbeldam and the British steamer St. Pancras, the former from Rotterdam and the latter from Antwerp, arrived here yesterday and reported exceedingly heavy gales.

For more than ten years Mr. Mc-Loghlin carried on the business in the built which he has just deserted. It was believed by one to be profitable. No one seems to kn which he has just deserts. It was believed by every one to be profitable. No one seems to know where the missing man has taken up his abode. He lived over the store with Mr. and Mrs. John Gaivin, Mr. Galvin being employed as a clerk and Mrs. Galvin's sister as cashler.

According to the story told by the Galvins, Mr. McLoghlin rushed from the store at midnight on Saturday, as the day's business ended, and jumped into a closed carriage which stood in front of the door. He gave no explanation for his sudden departure, and since then nothing has been seen of him. All day Sunday, it is said, men were at work in the store, and at 4 o'clock yesterday morning seventeen moving vans drew up in front of the store with a big gang of men, and in half an hour the place was empty. Where the goods were taken could not be learned. Yesterday norning a collector of Dunham. Bulldey & Co., of New-York, visited the deserted store, expecting to collect $1,000 which the missing man is said to owe the firm for goods.

WANT DROVE HIM TO DEATH.

Henry Weber, a tailor, thirty-five years old, committed suicide early yesterday morning by hanging himself to the door of his bedroom with a clothesline. Weber occupied apartments with his three children at No. 1.136 Willoughby-ave. He was a widower. The hard times had caused him to a widower. The hard times had caused him to become despondent, as he feared starvation. His three children occupied adjoining rooms to the one in which he slept. When they awoke yesterday morning and saw the body of their father dangling in the air they become horrlifed and screamed from fright. Their screams were heard by the other occupants in the house, who cut down the body occupants in the house, who cut down the body. For several days Weber and his children had suffered greatly from want of food and fire, and many days had gone to bed hungry and cold. The suffering of the little ones nearly drove the father crazy. All day Sunday the members of the family were compelled to go without food.

Julia McDonald, a widow, forty-nine years old, Julia McDonald, a widow, forty-nine years old, and John McDonald, her son, were buried together yesterday from St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, Jersey City. Mrs. McDonald lived with her three sons at No. 215 Erie-st. She and John were both prostrated by pneumonia at about the same time. John died Priday night, but Mrs. McDonald was kept in isnorance of the fact lest it should retard her recovery. When the undertaker was called in, although she did not see him, she recognized his voice and knew that her son was dead. She declared that she could not live, and her death occurred within half an hour.

springfield-ave., was accidentally shot and killed yesterday morning. Young Langfeld, Albert Kasselmann and John Holley started out for a day's hunting early Sunday morning. They went to Lyon' Farms, where they procured a boat and went out on the lake. Young Langfeld spied a rabbit and, pulling the boat ashore, stepped out of it. He reached back into the boat for the gun, and in pulling it out the hammer struck the side of the boat and the gun was discharged. The contents of the barrel were emptled into Langfeld's side, tearing a great hole through his flesh. He fell back, dying almost instantly.
